

Capital Ambition and Croydon Council present:

Mobile and Flexible Working event: Networking and Sharing Best Practices

London Councils' offices SE1 0AL, London Bridge

Wednesday 13th April 2011, 9.30 am – 1.45 pm

Background:

Capital Ambition commissions a wide range of projects that focus on making efficiencies and improving services to tackle many of the issues facing local authorities in improving life for Londoners.

Croydon Council are leading on a project focusing on the creation of a 'heat map' which will capture the level of mobile and flexible working currently across all London boroughs. The heat map displays local authorities that have implemented or are implementing mobile and flexible working, and intends to share best practices that will help local authorities on their journey of introducing mobile and flexible working.

Event objectives:

- To establish a common understanding of mobile and flexible working across London Councils
- To share lessons learnt and best practice stories for either people, processes or technology surrounding the success of mobile and flexible working
- To identify the current leaders in mobile and flexible working
- To identify possible efficiency savings and productivity increased due to mobile and flexible working
- To network and build relationships with other London boroughs and support one another
- To discuss technology partnerships and delivery partners that are experienced in mobile and flexible working.
